HELLO! DESTINATION MANAGEMENT

At Hello! California our clients expect more than “sourcing” and turning the responsibility of an event over to the venue. Identifying venue options that meet a client’s basic objectives is crucial, but knowing which one can be molded into the finest option requires deeper investigation and a real working knowledge of each venue. As one of the largest users of event venues in our market (and often the biggest venues), we experience each venue’s traits and benefits, as well as their weaknesses, on a regular basis. And our expertise is present from planning through execution to ensure the success of each event. Below is just a small sampling of venues that we have to offer. Please connect with Hello! California to determine what venue will be the best fit for your group.
